Abstract [English]

"on october 1st, 1995 the schleswig-holstein institute for peace research (ship) was established by decree of the minister for science, research and cultural affairs of the german federal state of schleswig-holstein. thus, in autumn 2000 the institute became five years old. the anniversary was celebrated by a public event on october 17th, 2000, entitled '10 years of baltic sea co-operation - 5 years of ship', thereby pointing out the fact that ship's core subject of research, the co-operation in the baltic sea region, is roughly twice as old as the institute. in the centre of the event, which was also the 18th meeting of the the ship-colloquium 'co-operation and conflict in the baltic sea region', stood two lectures. both are documented below and both drew a specific balance of baltic sea co-operation: heinz-werner arens, president of the parliament of schleswig-holstein and chairman of the standing committee of the baltic sea parliamentary conference, focussed on the development of parliamentary cooperation in the region. carl-einar stalvant, research director of the södertörn university college in stockholm and member of ship's advisory board, analysed the course and present state of regional integration, a process going on for some ten years now."
